Notes for Vulnerable Populations Emergency Response

BC Emergency Management System

- comprehensive framework that helps ensure a coordinated and organized approach to emergencies and disasters. It is intended to:
  - Provide a standardized approach to developing, coordinating and implementing emergency management programs across the province
  - Establish guiding principles, processes and common terminology to help stakeholders participate in all phases of emergency management
  - Emphasize integration and partnerships that facilitate communication and coordination on all levels
- Questions
  - are you reporting to the Provincial Emergency Coordination Centre (PECC) or a Provincial Regional Emergency Operations Centre (PREOC)?

Provincial Regional Emergency Operations Centre (PREOC)

- During emergencies, such as wildfires, floods or earthquakes, local governments are responsible for leading local response efforts. If the emergency is beyond their capacity, PREOCs can be opened to provide support.
- PREOCs are offices comprised of emergency management staff, trained to assist local governments with planning, coordination and logistics. There are six PREOCs across B.C. located in each of EMBC's regions (PDF).

Provincial Emergency Coordination Centre (PECC)

- If multiple PREOCs are opened, the PECC at EMBC headquarters in Victoria is activated to support them. The PECC has the ability to:
  - Coordinate resources and communications,
  - Request provincial government assistance, and
  - Reach out to other provinces or the federal government.
