6. MAYOR'S REPORT:

Mayor Krog advised:

- He was pleased to read out a letter from the Federation of Canadian Municipalities (FCM) acknowledging and congratulating Nanaimo and partner Equal Voice – Central Vancouver Island, for the excellent effort on the Toward Parity Demonstration Project. Nanaimo was one of twenty successful projects from across Canada to receive the $5,000 grant funding from FCM's Toward Parity in Municipal Politics Project.
- The Mayor credited Parks, Recreation and Culture Staff for the efforts they've had to make this year during very difficult times dealing with numerous rule changes and directions respecting public health and safety. The City of Nanaimo understands that the holiday season will be different this year due to the pandemic but there are still many holiday activities that families can engage in together while following Provincial Health Orders. Families needing some inspiration are invited to look at the "Family Activity Ideas" list that was compiled by Parks, Recreation and Culture Staff at nanaimo.ca/go/holiday-ideas. Activities are low or no cost.
- He is hoping that 2021 is the year we were all wishing for, last December when anticipating what 2020 was going to be like. 2020 is not a year anyone anticipated but remarked on the positive level of compliance by citizens of the community when it came to taking directions regarding distancing and wearing masks. There have been many changes for individuals, from those who have lost employment and business owners who have seen their life dreams washed away by the pandemic, in circumstances that were entirely not their fault. He advised we have to express sympathy for those folks and understand how the pandemic has impacted everyone's life in this community.

- He particularly recognized the Staff in the City, who faced job losses or changes and who put up, on occasion, with impatience and direct abuse from members of the public who weren't kind or patient. He expressed gratitude for everyone who has worked so hard and for Staff in the City.
- He thanked front line workers for their service. He remarked it has been a difficult year with overdoses and opioid deaths continuing in the community. In the larger community we now have enduring respect for the role of everyone who provides a service or works in the community and we are now very conscious of the supply chain, food received, goods we need, products we consume and services received. We are dependent on people we haven't thought of before. It is a time to express gratitude and kindness to each other and extend gratitude as we face many more months of restrictions and potentially more severe restrictions as the pandemic takes on a new form as seen in Great Britain. The reality is people have died who didn't deserve to or need to because of a pandemic no one saw coming and some reacted to without the concern or took seriously the challenge it was going to present.
- He asked everyone, as we celebrate the solstice and approach the Christmas season, to think about everyone in your community and the respect that they deserve, keep words soft and sweet as you never know if you're going to have to eat them. Please respect the rules, do the right thing, wear a mask, continue to distance, look out for one another and seek medical treatment if needed.
- He expressed thanks to Council for work taken on and to Staff who continue to serve in difficult times. He is optimistic that better days are coming. Sometimes life is about enduring until things change and they will get better and we will see brighter and happier days ahead. This is a year like no other.

7. PRESENTATIONS:

- (a) Karen Fry, Fire Chief - Presentation of the Canadian Fire Services 20 Year Fire Services Exemplary Service Medal

Mayor Krog advised Chief Fry began her career in 1999 with the City of Nanaimo as a fire dispatcher, she carried out a progressive range of duties and roles in Nanaimo and Surrey. She was appointed as the first female fire chief in 2017, which was also the first for Vancouver Island and second for British Columbia. She is the First Vice-President of the BC Fire Chief's Association. Effective January 4, 2021, Chief Fry will assume the position as Chief of the Vancouver Fire and Rescue Service. It is an incredible honour for her and the City. On behalf of Council and the citizens of Nanaimo he acknowledged 20 years of loyal and exemplary service to public safety in Canada and presented her on behalf of the Governor General of Canada, her Excellency, the Right Honourable Julie Payette, the Canadian Fire Services 20 Year Fire Services Exemplary Service Medal.

- (b) Bylaw Enforcement Officer Barry Hornby - Appreciation Award of Bravery

Mayor Krog advised that on Thursday, December 3, 2020, a large fire broke out in the homeless encampment on Wesley Street located immediately behind the Service and Resource Centre building. Fortunately there were no injuries. The fire fully destroyed multiple tents and triggered a number of propane tank explosions which shook nearby buildings. Bylaw Enforcement Officer Barry Hornby rushed onto the scene and guided people in the immediate vicinity to safety. This situation could have been catastrophic had it not been for his actions. This is courage at its finest. Mayor

Krog conveyed this is not in his job description as a bylaw enforcement officer. He thanked him for his extraordinary selfless act of courage, commended his act of bravery without regard for his personal safety and was honoured to present a plaque from the City of Nanaimo.
